> Kestrel Data: IT Support for Hotels
>
> Kestrel Data is an IT services company in Bristol. It has twenty-five employees and offers technical support to hotels in the south-west of England. Its clients range from small family hotels with ten rooms to large hotels with conference halls. Kestrel Data does not make any hardware or software itself. Instead, it chooses suitable computers, booking software and Wi-Fi equipment for each hotel and sets everything up.
>
> Most hotels pay a monthly fee. For this fee, Kestrel Data watches its clients' networks from its office twenty-four hours a day. If a hotel's booking system stops working, a technician usually solves the problem online within thirty minutes. When a technician has to visit a hotel, the company promises to arrive within three hours.
>
> The company's busiest months are July and August, when most hotels are full. During these two months, all staff work longer hours, and nobody takes a holiday. In winter, when hotels are quieter, the technicians install new equipment and train hotel staff. These training sessions take place once a month at Kestrel Data's office.
>
> The company's director, Helen Price, says that hotel guests now expect fast Wi-Fi in every room. 'Ten years ago, guests usually asked about the restaurant when they arrived,' she says. 'Today, their first question is nearly always about the Wi-Fi password.' Next year, Kestrel Data plans to open a second office in Cardiff, because more and more hotels in Wales want its services.

R21. What does Kestrel Data do?

A. It makes computers for hotels.
B. It writes booking software.
C. It runs family hotels in Bristol.
D. It offers IT support to hotels.

R22. How quickly does a technician usually solve a booking system problem online?

A. Within thirty minutes
B. Within three hours
C. Within one day
D. Within ten minutes

R23. What happens at Kestrel Data in July and August?

A. Technicians train hotel staff.
B. Staff take their holidays.
C. All staff work longer hours.
D. Technicians install new equipment.

R24. How often are the training sessions for hotel staff held?

A. Once a month
B. Once a week
C. Twice a month
D. Every summer

R25. According to Helen Price, what do hotel guests nearly always ask about first today?

A. The restaurant
B. The conference halls
C. The booking system
D. The Wi-Fi password

Part 2B: True / False (R26–R30)

Read the passage and write T (True) or F (False) (Questions 26–30).

> Working from Home: IT Rules at Fenwick Insurance
>
> Staff at Fenwick Insurance can work from home two days a week. Our customers trust us with their personal information, so please follow these IT rules every time you work at home.
>
> You have to connect to the company network through the VPN before you open any work files. You mustn't save customer files on your own computer. Always keep them on the company server.
>
> Your company laptop is for work only. Family members and friends mustn't use it, even for a few minutes. You can use your own printer at home, but you should shred printed customer documents when you no longer need them.
>
> You don't have to start work at nine o'clock on your home-working days, but you must answer phone calls between ten and four. If you have a technical problem, call the helpdesk. It is open from eight in the morning to six in the evening, Monday to Friday. Outside these hours, send an email, and a technician will reply the next morning.

Speaking

2.5 points

Part 1 (S1)

Answer the three questions. Speak for 30–45 seconds for each question.

Suggested time: 45 seconds per question.

1. How often do you check your email or messages, and when do you usually do it? Use adverbs of frequency and time expressions (always, usually, every morning, twice a day).

2. Imagine a support technician visits your class to talk about their job. Ask them three questions about their work. Use present simple questions (Do you…? How often do you…? What do you…?).

3. The computer lab at your university is always full before exams. Make two suggestions to solve the problem. Use Shall we…?, How about / What about + -ing? or We could….

Part 2 (S2)

Describe an IT company. Speak for 1–1.5 minutes.

Suggested time: 90 seconds.

You work for an IT company (real or imagined). A group of students is visiting your company. Explain what your company does, who its clients are, what products or services it provides and how often it does important things. Use the present simple (We provide…, Our clients are…, It sells…) and adverbs of frequency or time expressions (usually, always, twice a year).

- type of company: software developer / service provider / manufacturer
- products or services
- clients
- where the company works and how many employees it has
- how often it does important things (new versions, training, meetings)

Required language: Present simple for company activities: We provide…, It sells…, Our clients are…; Adverbs of frequency and time expressions: usually, always, often, twice a year, every month.

Part 3 (S3)

Deal with the situation. Speak for 1–1.5 minutes.

Suggested time: 90 seconds.

You are a senior technician. A new colleague is going to start work in your company's server room tomorrow. Tell them the rules of the server room using the cues. Use must, mustn't, have to, don't have to, can't and should, and at least two imperatives (Keep…, Don't…).

- sign in at the door every time you enter (must / have to)
- no food or drink (mustn't / can't)
- a uniform is not necessary (don't have to)
- visitors only with the manager's permission (can't)
- report any warning lights to the supervisor immediately (should)
- keep the door closed / don't touch the cables without permission (imperatives)

Required language: Rules: must, mustn't, have to, don't have to, can't, should; Imperatives: Keep…, Don't….
