Listening transcript — Part A

Anna: Good morning, SafeStore. Anna speaking. How can I help?

Jack: Hello. I run a small dental clinic, and I'm looking for an online backup company. Can I ask a few questions?

Anna: Of course.

Jack: First, how often do you back up the files?

Anna: Our standard plan backs up your files every night at midnight. Our business plan does it every hour.

Jack: I see. And where do you keep the data? Patient records are very private.

Anna: All our servers are in two data centres in the UK. We never store data outside the country, and everything is encrypted.

Jack: Good. Do you charge for each computer?

Anna: No, we don't. We charge by the amount of storage you use. The standard plan costs twenty pounds a month for five hundred gigabytes.

Jack: That should be enough for us. What happens if I lose a file? Do I call you?

Anna: You can, but most customers usually restore files themselves on our website. It only takes a few minutes.

Jack: And does your helpline open at weekends?

Anna: Yes, it's open every day, from seven in the morning until eleven at night.

Jack: Great. Could you send me some information by email?

Anna: Certainly. What's your email address?

Listening transcript — Part B

Andrew: Hello, everyone. This is Andrew from the IT department. I'm calling about the new IT security rules, which start on the first of April. Please listen carefully.

Andrew: First, updates. From April, the system installs security updates every Thursday at lunchtime, so you mustn't switch your computer off on Thursdays until three o'clock. The system always shows a warning ten minutes before it restarts.

Andrew: Second, USB sticks. You mustn't use your own USB sticks on company computers any more. If you need to move files, please use the shared drive instead.

Andrew: Third, laptops. When you take a laptop out of the office, you have to carry it in a locked bag, and you should never leave it alone in a café or on a train.

Andrew: Finally, we're running a short training session about the new rules on Wednesday the twenty-fifth of March at two o'clock in Room 4B. All staff have to attend, but it takes less than an hour. If you have any questions, call me on extension 418. Thanks very much.

Instruction email to Jenny

You are the office manager. Jenny is a new receptionist in your company. Write an email to Jenny explaining how to give a visitor access to the guest Wi-Fi, using the notes below. In your email you must use:
- at least two adverbs of frequency or time expressions (always, never, every Monday);
- at least two rule structures (must, mustn't, have to, should) or imperatives.
Follow the standard layout for an email giving instructions: From / To / Date / Subject, a greeting, It should be quite easy to …, the steps with First / Then / Next / After that / Finally, a reminder (Don't forget to … when you've finished.), then Best wishes and your name, position and department.
Write 80–100 words (do not count the From, To, Date and Subject lines).

- ask the visitor to sign the visitors' book / always check their ID
- give them a guest Wi-Fi card from the top drawer (the password changes every Monday)
- never give visitors the staff Wi-Fi password
- show them how to connect to the "Guest" network
- if the connection doesn't work, call the helpdesk on extension 200
- reminder: lock the drawer when you've finished

Speaking

2.5 points

Các bài mẫu là gợi ý tham khảo, không phải đáp án đúng duy nhất. Part 1 có câu hỏi mở và không có bài mẫu trong bộ dữ liệu.

Part 1 (S1)

Answer the three questions. Speak for 30–45 seconds for each question.

Suggested time: 45 seconds per question.

1. What do you usually do on a normal weekday? Talk about your routine. Use adverbs of frequency and time expressions (always, often, hardly ever, once a week, at the weekend).

2. Ask a classmate three questions about their part-time job or their university timetable. Use present simple questions (Do you…? How often do you…? What time does…?).

3. What rules does your family have about using phones or the internet at home? Use must, mustn't, have to, don't have to or can't.

Part 2 (S2)

Describe someone's working week. Speak for 1–1.5 minutes.

Suggested time: 90 seconds.

Look at the weekly timetable of Tuan, a database administrator. Describe his duties and how often he does each one. Use the present simple and adverbs of frequency or time expressions (always, usually, every evening, twice a month, every Thursday), and say which task you think is the most important and why.

- every evening, 6.00: back up the customer database
- Monday morning: check how fast the database answers queries
- twice a month: update staff permissions
- every Thursday, 2.00: meeting with the developers
- never deletes old data without a backup

Required language: Present simple for duties: She checks…, She trains…; Adverbs of frequency and time expressions: always, usually, every day, twice a week, once a month, never.

Sample response

> Tuan is a database administrator, and his week is quite busy. Every evening at six o'clock, he backs up the customer database, so the company never loses its data. On Monday mornings, he usually checks how fast the database answers queries, because slow queries make the staff angry. Twice a month, he updates the staff permissions, for example when someone joins or leaves a team. Every Thursday at two o'clock, he has a meeting with the developers to talk about changes to the database. He never deletes old data without a backup. I think the most important task is the evening backup, because if the database crashes, the company can get all its information back.

Part 3 (S3)

Deal with the situation. Speak for 1–1.5 minutes.

Suggested time: 90 seconds.

Your office prints too much paper, and printing costs are very high. In a meeting, respond to your colleagues' ideas in the cues, then make at least two suggestions of your own. Use shall or could, how about / what about + -ing, maybe or perhaps, and I'm afraid… to disagree politely.

- Colleague's idea 1: remove all the printers from the office → disagree politely and give a reason
- Colleague's idea 2: print on both sides of the paper → agree
- Your suggestions: set a monthly printing limit for each person / send documents by email / share files on the company server

Required language: Suggestions: Shall we…?, We could…, How about / What about + -ing?; Softening: Maybe / Perhaps we could…; Disagreeing politely: I'm afraid… + reason.

Sample response

> Thanks for your ideas. I'm afraid I don't agree with removing all the printers. Some of our clients still want paper contracts, and we sometimes need to print them quickly. But I agree that we should print on both sides of the paper. That's an easy way to save money. I also have some suggestions. How about setting a monthly printing limit for each person, for example two hundred pages? Maybe we could send more documents by email instead of printing them. And what about sharing meeting documents on the company server? Then everyone can read them on their laptops. Shall we try these ideas for three months and then check the costs again?
